PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

My goal is to pivot into other industries alongside my knowledge of the liquor industry's business model and day to day activities. My background in economic analysis evolved my ability to critically think and apply theoretical concepts allowing me to translate economics into language that laymen can understand. Alongside my expertise in the liquor industry and valuable understanding of economics, I have much to offer in terms of interpersonal skills, ability to work in a dynamic and static setting, and adherence to tight deadlines required by my work. I thrive in team environments as well as individual assignments.
